

Ghana approves sale of controlling stake in Vodafone Ghana to Telecel Group

Ghana has granted Vodafone International Holdings approval to sell its 70% stake in Vodafone Ghana to Telecel Group, the country's telecoms regulator said on Monday, 16 January.

The logo of Vodafone is seen on the facade of a store in Ronda, Spain, on 3 October 2022. Reuters/Jon Nazca

The National Communications Authority (NCA) approved the sale after Telecel submitted a revised financial and technical proposal in December. The NCA had turned down an initial sale plan submitted by Vodafone Ghana early last year as it did not meet required regulatory standards.

The NCA said that the revised proposal provided more clarity on funding required for the transaction and met the regulatory threshold.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Reporting by Aby Jose Koilparambil in Bengaluru; editing by Susan Fenton.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>